KEY CONTROL: prevent surreptitious use of keys
KEYSURE'S Keyless lock box provides physical accountability for individual keys. Use them individually or... as a system as described below for tenant landlord situations.

THE "ULTIMATE" SECURITY SYSTEM FOR TENANTS' KEYS

Tenants today are more concerned than ever about the keys they must leave with building management for entry to their apartments in case of emergencies.

KEYSURE is a patented pilfer-proof, plastic container, which acts like a "security seal". Once the container is closed it must be broken to gain access to the key. At that point, the tenant will know that his key has been tampered with.

Each key is first tagged with a code number and then placed in the container. To assure anonymity, the tenant signs his name on the large labels on both interior surfaces of the container. This unique KEYSURE feature provides an important added measure of security and personally involves the tenant.

Then the same code number and the tenant's mother's maiden name are written on both outside panels. The KEYSURE containers are then filed in the storage cabinet in numerical order, making retrieval a simple matter. A code list allows quick and accurate identification of each KEYSURE container.

Also available as part of a key control system. See the cabinets below. Drawer configurations also available, call for details.
